MRS. HUMPHREY WARD WRITES ON "VICTORY AND PEACE"

Mrs. Humphrey Ward, great woman of English letters, has written a series of articles on "Victory and Peace" for the Gazette.

Mrs. Ward is as great in her heart as she is in literary ability. She is well prepared to handle the topic chosen. She has met and talked to the great leaders, both military and civilian, in the war, including Marshal Foch, General Pershing, Field Marshal Haig, President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and others. She has watched the splendid work of the American and allied soldiers under all conditions.

She has visited the battlefields in the darkest hours of the war. She saw them just before the victorious allied drive began. And she has just revised them to show what remains of war-torn northern France and how the thousands upon thousands of war refugees are situated.

Among the subjects Mrs. Ward will discuss in her articles are:

The chief military events of 1918.

The steady arrival and expansion of the American army.

The unity of command.

Foch's counter offensive.

The stand of General Gouraud on July 18—his description of it to Mrs. Ward at Strasbourg.

The effect on the outside of the Americanizing of large sections of eastern and central France.

The battle of the Marne—Toul, Verdun and the Hindenburg line.

The great four months' battle of the British army culminating in the breach of the Hindenburg line.

The personalities of the war and the peace conference.

A study of General Pershing.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward. She knows what America is doing now over there, what Europe must do and what Germans must pay toward settling the war and establishing peace everlasting.

Watch for the first article.

It is a privilege to meet with them. He outlined the different motives with which wars had been fought in America in years past. First the revolution was waged to secure the liberty of the people, themselves. Second, the civil war was waged to free the oppressed people within the country. The Spanish American war for an oppressed people just outside our own borders, and the last great war was fought for humanity. He expressed the hope that the present war might be the last one. He noted some of the various surprises of the war as shown in the development made in warfare, in building airplanes, submarines, tanks and gasplanes, in mobilizing troops, and in intensive training. Then he said the great mass of people had stood by the government in supplying the funds to finance the war, and he never ending surprise. He prophesied that the people would oversubscribe for this victory loan, as a thank offering for the success of the war, and a real patriotic appeal.

Another surprise had come to many in the organized opposition to the proposed League of Nations. He thought that those who opposed this plan were doing so from selfish reasons or from political motives, and that they had not looked at the question from the point of view of the world. He thought that the world must organize its friendships, and unite on a common basis or a new war was liable to engulf the world. He thought that the nation must catch the vision, and be willing to give up something of its sovereignty, in order to combine for the good of the whole.

Voice of the People

To the Editor: Considerable has been said in your "Voice of the People" column about high school girls, baby buggies or side walk dogs, recreation parks (and I believe that will be started this summer) and a number of other kicks and suggestions, but I have one subject in my mind that I believe is timely and should be taken notice of. That is the laying out of our ward boundary lines. At the present time, we have five wards, some of them in particular large and one of them in particular small. The fifth—so, gerrymandered to suit the political aims of a few politicians a few years ago when party politics were lightly drawn, that it really is a disgrace. This ward begins at Sherer's drug store and runs down to the M. E. church and then up to Linn street and down into the river. It runs up West Bluff street up to Chatham and thence north one block to Ravine, west on Ravine to Pine and then back to Bluff street. My idea would be to make about eight wards, take the first ward including wards, take the fifth and make two wards; take the fourth and part of the fifth and make two wards; make two wards out of the third ward make a new ward of all that part where a Samson Tractor Company is located—all that side of the river, including the Second ward. That would give the city eight wards, giving us more representation in the council. As the wards are now, it is impossible for the aldermen to do justice to the city.

Maybe the city planners will look into this matter, and I believe if they do it will be a wise move.

Signed—First Warder.

HOW TO RAISE BABY CHICKS

Put this in the drinking water.

Most people lose half of every hatch and seem to expect it. Chick cholera or white diarrhoea is the trouble. The U. S. government states that over half the chicks hatched die from this cause.

An Avicol tablet, placed in the drinking water, will positively save your little chicks from all such disaster. Inside of 48 hours the sick ones will be as lively as crickets. Avicol will keep them healthy and make them grow and develop more rapidly.

Mrs. Vannie Thackeray, R. F. D. 3, St. Paris, O., writes: "I had 30 chicks and they all died but 32. Then I commenced on Avicol and haven't lost any since. They have grown wonderfully."

It costs nothing to try Avicol. If you don't find that it prevents and properly cures white diarrhoea, chick cholera and all bowel diseases of poultry, return it and your money will be refunded by return mail. Avicol is sold by most druggists and poultry remedy dealers, or you can send 25c of the today for a package by mail postpaid. Burrell-Dugger Co., 219 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

A POOR ARGUMENT.

Some of the arguments the wets are using in their campaign to induce congress and several state legislatures to make a dead letter of the prohibition amendment to the United States constitution are, to say the least, curious.

One is: "Europe has had liquor for hundreds of years and would not now think of adopting prohibition. Why cannot we learn something from the experience of Europe?"

At this time when an appeal to the citizens of the United States is ridiculous. There is nothing in Europe that the United States would care to pattern after. Our country is happy and prosperous. Europe is trembling on the verge of ruin. Our present condition has resulted from our getting away from European institutions and customs. Then why should we go to Europe for ideas of what we should do? We have courageously struck out blazed new trails for ourselves. Shall we turn back and follow Europe into her wilderness of turmoil and despair?

Europe has been governed abomi-nably for hundreds of years. Is it not unfortunate that the spokesmen for the liquor interests ask Americans to go to Europe and learn wisdom?

Most Americans hold the opinion that we should be teachers of Europe, not pupils.

CLEAN UP.

"Clean Up and Paint Up" time approaches. Janesville will be asked to put on her best dress to greet the many hundreds of people who are coming here to look her over. Many of these people will stay in the city attracts. Many will be mere visitors, but what they say of Janesville when they go back to where they come from will depend upon the impression created by her appearance.

Janesville in the last few months has been advertised in almost every section of the United States and in other parts of the world. No one city in the United States has stood out more prominently, simply because she had not been generally heard of before as an industrial center. Janesville is becoming to mean something more than a beautiful little city situated on the beautiful little river. It is thought of as one of the homes of a big corporation which does things.
Janesville must live up to the reputation she has gained by having opportunities thrust upon her.

Every man and woman should have such pride in this city that nothing will be left undone to make it most attractive to those who come to us.
A touch of paint here, a removal of useless shacks, clean streets and altogether absence of rubbish removed will make much difference in our appearance.

Imagine what a change would result if all the store fronts along the principal business streets were painted this spring. It would be a startling revelation and would meet with the approval of every patron who has money to spend.

Many of our merchants have already anticipated the advantages of bright, clean looking store fronts and have either painted up or are planning to do so.

Let us make it unanimous.

FIVE PER CENT BONDS.

Business and financial men of the middle west are of the opinion that rate of interest on the Victory bond issue should be fixed at five per cent.

A committee from Chicago has gone to Washington to discuss the matter.

The final war issue should be bettered from the fact of the former ones where the value of these securities dropped almost immediately after the public had subscribed for them. Many thousands of men and women of small means invested in these securities at sharp personal sacrifices. Their reward has been to find their holdings deteriorate.

The buyers of the new bonds should be protected from such a condition.
The government can well afford to pay a good rate of interest.

WHY FAVOR DEBS?

A. Mitchell Palmer, new attorney general of the United States, has served notice on Eugene Debs, socialist leader convicted of obstruction of the war, that so long as he continues to defy the law, he will receive no clemency through an recommendation of Mr. Debs.

Mr. Palmer also informed socialists and others that the government will deal resolutely with the "general strike" Debs threatens to call or with any other interference with the mandate of the court sending the socialist to prison. Mr. Palmer's statement came as a reply to communications urging him to recommend leniency. It also was advice the attorney general cabled to President Wilson in response to an inquiry concerning the propriety of granting clemency to Debs.

Mr. Palmer sums up the situation as follows:
"In this situation my duty is clear.
Respect for the law and our institutions is the basis upon which every application for executive clemency must rest. Open defiance of the law and threat of force to obstruct its orderly administration call for only one answer. The law must be respected and obeyed. To make sure of that, it must be enforced. I would be doing a grievous wrong to the country and striking a blow at law enforcement if I adopted any course which would interfere with the normal administration of justice in this case."

Any man who has respect for the law cannot combat the position taken by Mr. Palmer. Debs has violated the law. He has been convicted and sentenced. Because he is the leader of an organization, other members of which have been proven obstructionists, does not make his position different from any other man who disobeyed the government's edicts. He should be treated as hundreds of others who have been found guilty of similar crimes.

Bituminous coal operators are considerably peeved because Railroad Director Hines has declared that they have made "abnormal profits." They declare the prices were fixed by the industrial board and that they had nothing to do with it. But the fact remains that the consumer has to pay and if any one has a right to be peevish, he is that person.

The chairman of the Chamber of Commerce garbage committee points out that the man who undertakes the contract to collect city refuse can make a profit of $12,500 a year. We have seen the time when such a proposition would not have to be a newspaper to call attention to the fact.

Taking the subject of governmental price-fixing all the way through, it appears that only one thought has been foremost in the minds of the experts who determined how much the public should pay. That is that those who control output should be protected no matter if the hardship on the ultimate consumer is severe.

The local Y. M. C. A. has come to the front with the suggestion that Janesville be known to the outside world as "The Tractor City." Inasmuch as definite plans call for the establishment of one of the biggest tractor plants in the world, the idea is not without merit.

The anthracite operators come forward with the defense that a raise in prices is necessary because of the administration of fuel affairs, by the government. Again the consumers will have to foot the bills and settle back into their role of the "goat."

of the MOMENT

ROY E. MOULTON

THE RUBAIYAT OF SAHARA.
Ah! my beloved, fill the cup that clears Today of past regrets and future
fears.
Tomorrow? why tomorrow you yourself may be Taking a drink across the sea.

Myself, I'm sure, will eagerly frequent
Some Medico and give him argument,
About it and about; but evermore
With SOME prescription will I pass his door.

Of all the Congressmen and Sages who discussed
Of Prohibition wisely, they are thrust Like foolish Prophets forth—they seem to shrink;
For where will they get another drink?

Right into Congress—through that hallowed gate,
I went, where all those wise men sate,
And many a knot unraveled there,
But not the knot of Liquor's fate.

There was the Senator who could not see,
The Congressman that will no longer be,
Some talk awhile of leaving beer
There was, and then no more for you and me.

'Tis but a momentary halt, a temporary stop,
While thousands from the Water-wagon drop,
And booze that once was easy to obtain
Will tempt the poor abstainer—not in vain.

And Liquor will be sold, some false,
some true,
And a softly whispered word will be the clue
And you will find it—to the Storage
house,
And to the distiller, too. —S. C.

time since the strike for 54 hours pay for a 48 hour week began nine weeks

THE CHANGED HOME.

The care has gone from mother's face, she's smiling once again.
And father's full of fun once more,
the happiest of men;
The girls are singing cheerful songs
the way they used to do Before my brother went away to see the big war through,
For everything is all right now,
there's nothing that we lack,
And we can laugh around the house,
we've got our doughboy back!

There was a time for months and months a joke was never heard,
And sometimes we'd just sit and read and never speak a word.
A letter now and then would come,
and for a little while Both Pa and Ma would brighten up and maybe wear a smile,
But mostly they were very sad, I guess they feared for Jack,
But everything is all right now,
we've got our doughboy back!

Pa's teasing as at dinner times, the way he used to do;
And Ma's as happy as can be because the war is through,
The old piano's open now, and every-
night we sing,
And I can race around the house
and play and everything,
And Jack can have two hunks of pie
and pancakes by the stack,
The house is full of gladness now,
we've got our doughboy back!

It is stated that the men must be trained soldiers who have been demobilized.
All men re-enlisting must be fully trained, fit for general service and over 19 years old. The pay will be the same as that of the armies of occupation.

HOLBROOK SOUNDS PREPAREDNESS NOTE AT TWILIGHT CLUB

Military guests, patriotic decorations, and a display of Twilight club members, their wives, and friends, some 300 strong, turned the Y. M. C. A. banquet hall into a scene of festivity at the annual ladies' night of the club last evening.

Sounding notes of national preparedness, individual support of the victory loan, and home preparedness were interspersed with the musical program of the evening with pronounced, outstanding "home hits."

The military guests of the club were the speaker, Major General W. A. Holbrook, chief of staff, Colonel Olin, Captain Avill of Camp Hancock, Ga., and Dr. Morgan Durand.

Sponsors Preparedness. "Peace is the war we are fighting. Preparedness is the only peace security."

These were the trite facts emphatically brought out by Major General W. A. Holbrook, commander of the Twentieth Division, who was the principal speaker on the program.

Major General Holbrook showed command as an orator as well as an officer. At his opening remarks his hearers were struck with his statement that the speaker raced with the clock in his brief remarks, being obliged to make the 9 o'clock car back to camp.

"The war is over and the period of reaction and criticism is present," he said with a poignant nod at Governor Allen in his criticisms of the lack of equipment of the 35th division when ordered to carry on.

"The People's Back of Congress." "Wasn't it all the greater glory for the men to go unprepared and win than to wait months for equipment?" he asked.

"It was yours, yours, because you did not get behind your congressmen and made them act on the measures of preparedness urged by war experts and officials."

"Those men who entered service will come back cleaner, better, saner men. I am proud that they will be our future men of the day. I am proud that we can leave our affairs in such capable hands."

Major General Holbrook opened his talks with a running resume of the great generals of the day, and giving his remarks on the fact that he had served at Camp Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, all three named after heroes of '61. He also was in command of various camps in the south. He stated that he had not been sent across.

For efficient and exceptional service Major General Holbrook was awarded the distinguished service cross at Washington.

Brief tributes were paid to the overseas commanders of the army of the world war.

"Fearing never mixed friendliness and efficiency. Many criticize the demoting of officers under his command. You expected him to produce an efficient army. Officers not efficient were removed."

Matheson Talks on Loan. Alexander Matheson followed Major General Holbrook as speaker with a plea for the public support of the victory loan, the quota of which in Janesville is about $300,000 higher than in other loans. He paid special tribute to the capability of the women.

P. M. Cushing Smith, architect, who has been here for two days as representative of Dr. John Nolen, city planner, going over the city layout with City Engineer Kerch, informed Janesville citizens settled in the banquet hall that some of the eyes sore about town. For instance he said he had waited 20 minutes and then had given up in despair trying to cross the railroad tracks to reach the city hall.

The city is laid out on the old plan of 1857, he reminded his audience, and urged the appointment of a city planning commission to further the work to be promoted by Dr. Nolen.

The Rev. J. A. Melrose presided as toastmaster. George Waldman, scheduled to sing a duet with Dr. Stuart F. Richards, was obliged to sing a solo instead. He responded with an encore. Miss Clara Shawman filling the place of Miss Grace Haddow, club members opened and closed the program with orchestral numbers.

The walls were profusely decorated with flags, the work of decorators from the Epworth stores. The tables were attractively laid with red and white carnations and numerous colored table lamps, donated for the occasion by furniture stores and electric shops.

CITY AND TOWNSHIP WORKERS IN VICTORY LOAN ANNOUNCED

The victory loan campaign work in the factories will be carried on under the direction of John L. Wilcox. This was the decision given out at noon today after meeting of the Janesville victory loan committee at the Chamber of Commerce.

City captains and town chairmen for the victory loan, which is to be launched tomorrow morning, were also named this morning.

William McVicar was named township director, his associates being Charles A. Muggleton, H. S. Lovejoy, and E. E. Windsor. City captains are R. K. Overton, La Prairie; C. H. Griffin, Rock; George Hull, Johnston; John Wixom, Harmony; H. Hemingway, Janesville; and J. H. Flinn, Madison.

City Captains Named.
The city captains are as follows: A. J. Huebel, H. H. Bliss, Frank P. Croak, Louis Levy, F. E. Sheldon, George C. A. Eblow, and E. E. Clemmons. E. E. Buss is chairman of the city campaign.

The first official steps in the opening of the drive were taken last night, when Alexander Matheson, practically opened the speaking campaign with a four minute talk at the Twilight club.

The first "V" posters were officially released this morning. They are being placed in the city and will be automatically released April 15. The office at the corner of Milwaukee and South Bluff streets will be opened Monday.

Janesville's quota has been determined as $300,000 above the quota of the last drive. The new quota is based on the fact that the city went that far over its goal in the previous campaign.

Matheson Appeals to Public.
"This loan is a loan for the people," said Mr. Matheson last evening. "It is a popular subscription loan even to a group of men. It is a loan which would be possible for bankers to be offered attractive interest to take up the loan and this would save a great deal of time for Sec. Glass."

The people's responsibility has not ended with the signing of the armistice.

Rock and Walworth counties have been chosen as the first counties in Wisconsin for the exhibition of the government's Victory Loan Rolling War Museum. The war exhibit train will open a campaign of the war, from Madison to the north and south, and will then work east to Clinton Junction, Delavan, and Elkhorn before starting toward the northwestern part of the state.

Exhibits War Relics.
The train is a combination of moving pictures and war relics, and includes the most notable features of the great war exhibition held in Madison last week, and in this instance the exhibit is free. It is being used to show the public just what the Americans used in their whipling of the German army on the western front, why the nation is now called upon to finish up the debts of the war with a final Victory loan, instead of a sixth war loan to continue a costly war.

The schedule of the train provides for its arrival in Janesville at 6 a. m. and it will remain there until 11 o'clock, when it will move west to Clinton Junction, where it will remain during the luncheon hour, from 1:15 until 2:30 p. m. and will then go on to Delavan for the evening.

The plans for the train are being kept as a surprise for the city which will visit, and only hints are being given of the nature of the special trip. The train, however, includes two of the whipling tanks, several of the gas, and a special display of several carloads of exhibits, and will be in each town where it stops for about three hours. During this time men with the train will explain not only the war, but the purpose of the Victory loan, which is just being launched.

W. R. C. PAYS HONOR TO G. A. R.; OBSERVES 34TH ANNIVERSARY

Grand Army day and the thirty-fourth anniversary of the organization of the W. R. C. Sargent, Women's Relief Corps, No. 21, were celebrated at a joint meeting of the corps and the G. A. R. post last evening.

The W. R. C. met in regular session in the afternoon at the East Side I. O. O. F. hall, with a large attendance. The corps had as its guests, Mrs. Grinnell, Beloit, national patriotic instructor and 13 comrades of the W. R. C. Sargent post.

Besides the regular business, there were four candidates initiated into the corps and five applications read which will be acted upon at the next meeting. Mrs. Grinnell gave a short talk on the work of the national patriotic instructor. Comrade J. P. Carle also made some interesting remarks.

Supper Served to 75.
Supper was served to 75 comrades and corps members. After supper a social hour was spent before the program of the evening was given.

The evening program was as follows: "Song," "Marching Through Georgia," piano solo, Lloyd Sadler; reading, "The Cremone," Mrs. Grace Sallor; "History of G. A. R.," piano solo, E. C. "Mrs. Ida Nelson," piano solo, E. C. "The Hymn of the Old Church," Mrs. Clara Shawman; on choral, "The Wonderful Mother," Mrs. Sweet; encore, "Katy's Visit to New York."

Mrs. Nelson Reviews History.
Mrs. Ida Nelson in reviewing the history of the G. A. R. and the W. R. C. said:

"We hardly know how to express our reverence for the Grand army, we have worked with them and for them so many years that we are blind to say too much even about the good qualities of one's own family, and the Grand army and the W. R. C. are just one big family."

"At the close of the Civil war the Grand Army of the Republic was organized to promote the principles of Fraternity, charity and Loyalty, and ever since they have been giving aid and comfort to their comrades."

"The work of the women during the Civil war was relief, just as it has been during the World war, for them on the battlefield, in hospitals, and in the homes of the widows and orphans of those soldiers who would never return."

"Soldiers' aids, Christian and sanitary commissions were organized each having their special work."

"With the disbandment of the armies followed the dissolution of the commissions and aids and our boys in blue as well as our girls in white, were left to find their own way in a world of conditions and without the help the soldier of today is receiving."

Financial Crisis Brings Hardships.
A decade passed by and a financial crisis in this country brought many hardships to the soldiers and their families, especially the soldiers who had been wounded."

"Hundreds of widows were looking for work but there was none. Where would the veterans turn for help but to the loyal women who had worked so faithfully during the years of the war?"

"It was then that the Woman's Relief Corps was formed and the G. A. R. soon after gave us the authority to use the title. Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic."

"We, H. Sargent, W. R. C. No. 21, Department of Wisconsin, was organized April 13, 1885, by Mrs. Emma J. Sargent, D. H. Sargent, Mrs. W. R. C. No. 21, 21 charter members. Of the 21 charter members we still have three in the corps: Mrs. Elizabeth Trumble, of this city, Mrs. Mary Phelps, Chicago, and Mrs. Rose Pen-ton, Madison."

Perpetrate Memory of Dead.
"One of the objects of our organization is to specially aid the G. A. R. and to perpetuate the memory of our boys who died."

"Now we say all honor to the Grand army men, the men who fought and saved our country, making it possible for us to take the place now occupy in the world of today."

"Long live they grand old men of the Grand Army of the Republic!"

J. F. Carle, in his 17-year comeback repeated the old story of his experiences in the battle of Resaca, where William L. F. Gilman, son of commander-in-chief Gilman, was read by Mrs. Nelson as expressive of the feelings toward the boys in blue.

Many New Books

She discusses every type of girl.

"The Life of Lincoln," by Lord Charnwood is especially noteworthy as the author is an

Tales of the Friendly Forest

One day as Billy Bunny was hopping along beside the babbling brook he came to a high sandhill, above which, high in the air, he saw what seemed to him a swarm of white butterflies. So the little rabbit stopped to look, and pretty soon, not so very long, a little Swallow, or Sand Martin, as these little cave dwellers are called, flew down and said: "I have a very nice home up there in the cliff. Would you like to make me a visit?" "But how am I to get up there?" asked Billy Bunny. "I have no wings," said the bird. "I never thought of that," said the little Sand Martin, and then he flew away up to his hole in the high sandhill. And just then, all of a sudden, old Prot, Crow flew by, and when the little rabbit called to him, the old blackbird flew down to where the little bunny sat on a fallen log and told him something about Sand Martins. "Read me something about Sand Martins," said Billy Bunny. "The wise old crow opened his book at page 42 and read:

"In the side of a high and sandy hill the little Sand Martin with his bill digs a hole sometimes three feet long.

Where he makes his home, and sings his song."

And then the old crow closed his book and flew away, and by and by he came to a little box. The door was open, and Billy Bunny could see away back inside a carrot stuck on the end of a stick, and then, all of a sudden, Robbie Redbreast, who was sitting on a tree nearby, began to sing:

"Don't go in that horrid box. It's really just a trap. And the carrot is there just to make you dare. And the door will close up with a snap."

"Nonsense," said Billy Bunny, and would you believe it, that foolish little rabbit hopped inside and nibbled on the carrot. And then—oh, dear me!—just as he was about to take another bite, the door snapped shut and Billy Bunny was caught just as sure as you're a foot high and the owner of a Liberty bell.

"Didn't I tell you so!" cried Robbie Redbreast, and he tried to peck in through a little crack, but he couldn't see the white door of Billy Bunny's little cotton tail. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" cried the little rabbit. "I wish I had followed your advice, Robbie Redbreast. Well, that door is really red-voiced bird, pulled away at the door with his bill and scratched away with his little feet; but, goodness me, he couldn't open the door as much as I could. So after a while he said: 'I'll try and get some one to open the door, Billy Bunny. So you wait until I come back'; but he needn't have said that, for what else could the poor little rabbit do? He was just like to know, and so would you, and in the next story you shall hear how the little rabbit got away."

News Notes from Movieiland

BY DAISY DEAN

Elsie Ferguson, the beautiful Art-craft star who has not appeared on the stage for several seasons, having devoted her entire attention to motion pictures, is now searching for a play. A few days ago, Miss Ferguson signed a new contract with Adolph Zukor covering a series of productions for several years. This, however, would interfere with her appearing on the stage at the same time. John Barrymore and the Sydney Drews have established a precedent for her, all of whom have created sensations on the stage during the spare moments.

Miss Ferguson was heard to remark recently that, contract or no contract, she might retire from pictures and the stage would not be the cause.

The new fashion in tight skirts may be the cause. Miss Ferguson had to wear one in a recent picture to comply with the latest word in fashion, and she claims that she will never wear a hobble skirt before the camera again.

"It is," declared Miss Ferguson, "a case of either the hobble skirts or the motion pictures. They do not combine nicely, and I shall banish one or the other."

How can the beautiful heroine escape from the deep-dyed villain if she is obliged to run in a bag tied around her ankles? The villain will necessarily trip her, and even then he will overtake her in pursuit. How can the villainess stoop to conquer if she can't stoop? And how can the star save her child from the burning building or the runaway horse if her ankles are impeded? Surely, there must be no tight skirts in the cinematograph.

RINGS ON HER FINGER

On the tiny third finger of her tiny left hand Marguerite Clark wears three little rings. All three are platinum bands and are of the same design, but the first is set with rubies, the second with diamonds and the third with sapphires.

"Yes," said Miss Clark in response to a suggestion that she was not ashamed to show her colors, "I have worn these little rings ever since we moved to Janesville and I have not removed them even in my pictures except when it was absolutely necessary. I was amused not long ago in reading a newspaper criticism on one of my recent pictures. It happened to be 'Little Miss Hoover,' the first picture I made after my marriage to Lieutenant Williams, and the reviewer called attention to the rings as being out of place on a girl who was supposed to be single. In the film they probably looked like a single band of the conventional type, and he thought they were my wedding ring."

LOOK WHO WE FOUND!

There is a surprise in store for all those who will see the Vitaphone production of "Robert W. Chambers' story, 'The Chamberlain.' The picture, which has long been a favorite with fans, plays the leading part but that is not the great discovery. The part of the hero, John Stark, is played by none other than the old time Vitaphone star, Mr. Cosmo. Mr. Cosmo has been absent from the screen for some time and his return will be a surprise to many. Remember the good old days when he used to lead the list in all the motion picture popularity contests?

Can a Hog Feed

READY-MIXED HOG FEEDS.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

The breeder should use his own mind and judgment in mixing the percentage of his feed for hogs. He can find all the tables in Henry & Morrison's Feeds and Feeding and in his agricultural college bulletins; and it is the fact that he can arrange and balance a ration on the basis prescribed. He would, however, save himself a great deal of time and labor and get more exact results should he ask the state feed inspection department for its published lists of all mixed feeds registered in the state, and choose those ready to feed which will meet his requirements.

He will find it to his advantage to know the game. He must use his own noodle in determining the quantities of each feed for each lot of pigs at different times during their growing period.

Professor Eyraud says: "The young growing pig weighing 30 to 60 pounds should eat about one pound of protein for every four pounds of carbohydrates."

Original Sources.

Examiner—"You are quite sure that this is a purely original composition you have handed in? I must say the wording sounds strangely familiar." Plagiarist—"Possibly you have run across some of the words in the dictionary."—Judge.

"When the pig reaches 100 pounds in weight, about one pound of protein to five pounds of carbohydrates is correct."

"At 150 pounds it should be increased; for each pound of protein six pounds of carbohydrates. The fairly well-grown hog, 240 to 300 pounds, in fattening will do well on one pound of protein to eight pounds of carbohydrates."

After listing the various feeds and combinations of feeds used in agricultural college, Professor Eyraud says: "Each buttermilk hog drank 32 pounds of buttermilk, ate less than half as much of the $2 corn, only one-third as much of the $60 tankage, only two-thirds as much of the $55 middlings, and actually reached a weight of 265 pounds some 62 days before the hog without buttermilk did."

So it would seem that buttermilk is one of the best hog feeds. Where it is not freshly available it may be had in a dried powder form. There are ten pounds of solids in every hundred pounds of liquid buttermilk. The rest is water.

Children should have candy frequently. Not too much at one time, mind you, but a little every day. Candy makes kiddies grow.

Razook's Chocolates are pure and wholesome. A liberal supply of smiles and happiness is mixed into every batch of candy we make.

Maybe that's the real reason why kiddies like Razook's candy.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 19 years of age and have been going with a boy 17. Do you think it is all right for a girl of my age to go with boys younger than herself?

(2) I am going away to take a course in nursing. Do you think it would be all right for me to write to him while I am there?

(3) What have been corresponding with a fellow in the service for seven months, although I have never seen him. My brother was in the same camp with him and it was through him we got acquainted. Since the war is over he is wanting to come around here on his way home to see me. What would you advise? His is 24.

ANNA.

(1) When a girl is two years older than a boy it should make no difference if they are congenial.

(2) Yes, it would be all right to write to him. Ask your brother's advice. If he says to let him come, do so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 19 years old and go to school with a fellow who is 18. He comes to the house three times a week and every time I go up the street I meet him and he looks at me. He is almost every night. Show, and that is almost every night. Every time he sees me speak to another fellow he gets angry. Is it right for him to be so jealous?

ANNA.

The man is far too old for you. A girl of 18 should have youthful companions. You are making a great mistake in spending every night with him, because a new greater danger of friendship. Besides this you should have more sleep and time alone.

Jealousy should not be considered from the standpoint of right and wrong. It is an emotion which can be controlled by reason and judgment. The man lacks control of his feelings or he would not show his jealousy. Unless he is engaged to you, he has no right to object to your other friendships.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man past 21 years old. There is a girl in the country near us. We were friends for about a year and then I moved away for twenty months. On my return our friendship was renewed for about two months. We had no fuss or words, but we have not spoken since. I have said and done nothing to lose her friendship and wish to regain it.

Should I try to reason or make a date with this girl? I am a worrier. Write the girl and ask for an explanation. Tell her you are sorry if you have offended her in any way. There may be some misunderstanding in this which can be straightened out in this way. It is your place to seek an explanation. If she disregards your letter and refuses an explanation, give her up, because it is evident that she no longer enjoys your friendship.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am in love with a boy at school. I know he used to love me, but he seems to care nothing for me now, as he loves another girl. But she doesn't love him. Can you tell me how to win back his love?

(2) It is wrong for a girl to write to a boy first or should he write first?

BLUE EYES FROM RIDGEVILLE.

(1) It is useless to try to win back love. Love cannot be forced. Forget about the boy and enjoy your other friends and pleasures.

(2) The boy should write first.

AWOMAN'S BUSINESS

BEING TWO WOMEN.

Janet Stedman sat without moving for a long time after Lucy Benton had gone. Lucy with her new wedding ring and her bravely won victory. Janet had a good deal of the feeling of a person caught by a color, and deposited a set of new problems to solve.

Lucy had done a difficult thing, perhaps the most difficult thing a woman can do—traced her life out of her life, cut herself off through marriage from any likelihood of future meeting, and still remain sweet toward the world, eager to pick up new threads of life, and determined to give the best of herself and her service where she could, no matter the cost.

Janet pondered long upon Lucy. It was not humanly possible that Lucy should have been so successful. They had labored together through the making of two whole books, both of them successful. Lucy's nimble mind and capacity for work had quickened Lucy to her best efforts.

Her help had been beyond calculation. What would be the result of this sudden withdrawal? Janet asked herself. And then she remembered Lucy's words, "You must be a woman, not only Lucy's wife and the maker of his home, but Lucy's fellow worker, his intelligent, sympathetic, helpful comrade as Lucy was."

Janet remembered Lucy's words. "It will be a hard row to hoe, but the very hardness of it is saving me. A hard row and find its difficulties stimulating, she could do the same. If Lucy could be 'two women' and follow her own work as well as her husband's, Janet could be two women also! She would find a way to be Lucy's wife—and the right sort of wife—and at the same time have her own independence. But how? That was the question!

Janet rose suddenly from her desk chair and looked rapidly round her handsome office as if seeking an answer from the inanimate objects among which she had worked so long and soon would see no more.

She started an impatient walk about the room, past the bookcase, the letter files, the orderly cabinet of stationery and supplies, finally pausing before a complete set of the magazine "Woman" as it had been run since she took the editorship. On a table next to it was a file of the magazine as it was when Lucy had bought it—a commonplace periodical culled out of old-fashioned lines under the assumption that women were interested in nothing but the classic three—K's, children, church, kitchen.

Janet picked up a copy of the latest issue. There were articles by the ablest feminist workers, two featuring the extremely modern woman, a few poems of a thoughtful nature, an elaborate bulletin of women's clubs and their doings, some matter relating to questions of the day, like miscellaneous, feminist gossip.

Then Janet turned to the magazine in its former style. Not a modern idea in it! Devoted entirely to women's most restricted realm. Seeing the two types side by side, the error made by both was suddenly apparent. Nothing but outside interests in the one; nothing but home interests in the other.

"The ideal woman's magazine," Janet exclaimed aloud in her eagerness, "should contain both! Just as there are and always will be the home and the woman out of it, so the woman's publication should have the best and most modern material touching both!"

She recalled that she had had great difficulty getting people to write good stuff about home matters; and had eliminated that feature, preferring to specialize on literary and artistic things. Now it came to Janet with a rush of joyous conviction that there was her solution! She would employ her talent and her experience in the domestic-literature field. She would work out experiments in her own home and write of them. She would study household economics and give dependable information in a height, intimate, readable form. She would—oh, she would do a thousand things. Her mind raced along its new channel with the impulsiveness of newly-awakened passion. Janet believed she had found the way to be "two women."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

EYE STRAIN

Perfect eyesight is practically unknown to oculists. Nearly every human eye at least in the civilized world, is in one way or another defective. One may have very defective vision, yet experience no symptoms from it, provided the general hygiene is good and one happens to be in good physical condition. But when the condition is impaired from any cause, say a streak of illness, then a defective vision is likely to tell of itself, and for this reason it is unwise for convalescents to read in bed.

Many individuals have displacements of organs without suffering any symptoms or ill consequences. Sagging of the stomach or twisting of the neck or a displaced womb usually causes no symptoms, provided the patient is not informed of the displacement. But let such an individual get a run down by bad hygiene or by a poor diet, and then the displacement may begin to give trouble.

Specialists see life through glasses of their own. The surgeon sees blue things red, the neurologist sees blue and red on an. An oculist conceived eye-strain as a possible cause of epilepsy, and he was given carte blanche in a great colony for epileptics. He spent much time accurately measuring a number of patients. Something like ninety-nine of them continued with their epilepsy unchanged after proper glasses had been fitted, and one patient immediately ceased having seizures and had no more for several months. One day he broke his glasses and shortly afterward had his first seizure, and his glasses were obtained and he had no more seizures. In his case, obviously, the removal of the eyestrain removed the epilepsy—one out of a hundred.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Neighborhood

I took six treatments (hypodermic injections) from the doctor for anemia and chlorosis. I gained so rapidly that I discontinued the treatments. Although he had advised twelve. Some neighbors tell me that if I do not have a relapse in three years I am likely to go insane when I get older. Please tell me if this is true, as I am worried. Miss H. A. S.

ANSWER—Your neighbor's advice is pure nonsense.

Doubtful Sterilization

Is it sufficient to put instruments in a lysol solution? (P. T. M.)

ANSWER—It is questionable whether the instruments would be sterilized. They should be boiled five minutes at least.

THAT WAS ALL

Judge—Now just what passed between you and the plaintiff?

Defendant—Well, your honor, there were two pairs of fists, one brick, seven cobble stones, a dozen assorted bad names and a chunk of coal!

Benetol, being a non-poisonous, sweet and pleasant-tasting, may be used up to its full strength in the treatment of all contagious diseases and since it is both an internal and external antiseptic, it takes the place of practically all of the first aids.

The Free Use of Benetol in the Home Keeps the Family Well

Prevents illness from epidemic germs because the daily use of Benetol as a mouth wash, throat gargle, nasal douche, and drinking water, keeps the throat and lungs free from germs which cause sore throat, tonsillitis, diphtheria, influenza, pneumonia, colds, and other diseases. It also keeps the stomach and intestines free from germs, and such intestinal diseases as dysentery, diarrhea, gastritis, etc., etc.

Following Are Simple Directions for the Treatment of the Most Prevalent Diseases That May Attack You

It is used liberally, daily, according to directions, it will do a great many things to which the human body is subject.

Tonsillitis, Diphtheria Quinsy

Certain germs obtain lodgment on the tonsils and cause inflammation. This inflammation of the tonsils is tonsillitis, but when very bad, known as quinsy, and when the Krebs-Löffler bacillus is at work it is diphtheria. There are other diseases, such as scarlet fever, erysipelas, etc., but all due to germ action.

Prevention—Any one of these diseases can be prevented by the habit of gargling or spraying the throat every morning and evening with Benetol solution. In diphtheria, the soreness in the throat is so great that the patient cannot swallow. Benetol, if used liberally, will soothe the throat, and the patient will be able to eat and drink. ### Running Sores and Old Wounds

In many cases the blood is not sufficiently active to start granulation or tissue building, which heals sores and wounds. The serum keeps seeping out causing what is called a running sore. The same causes pressure sores. Benetol, if used liberally, will soothe the sore, and the patient will be able to eat and drink. ### Boils and Carbuncles

Causation—Certain germs known as streptococci and staphylococci are found in the pores of the skin. Under favorable circumstances these germs penetrate under the skin, multiply, and cause boils, carbuncles, abscesses, etc.

Barbers' Itch and Seven Year Itch

These itch diseases are caused by tiny insects called mites which penetrate under the skin. Some forms of itch, like barber's itch, are caused by minute fungi. The treatment must involve night and morning application of Benetol under the skin and kill these mites without destroying the skin itself. The best and most effective known agent is the antiseptic Benetol.

Treatment—Wash the infected parts with a solution of Benetol in warm water. Dry with soft cloth. Now apply full strength Benetol. In the evening apply the Benetol Ointment. Use the full strength each morning and the Ointment at night and the disease will soon disappear.

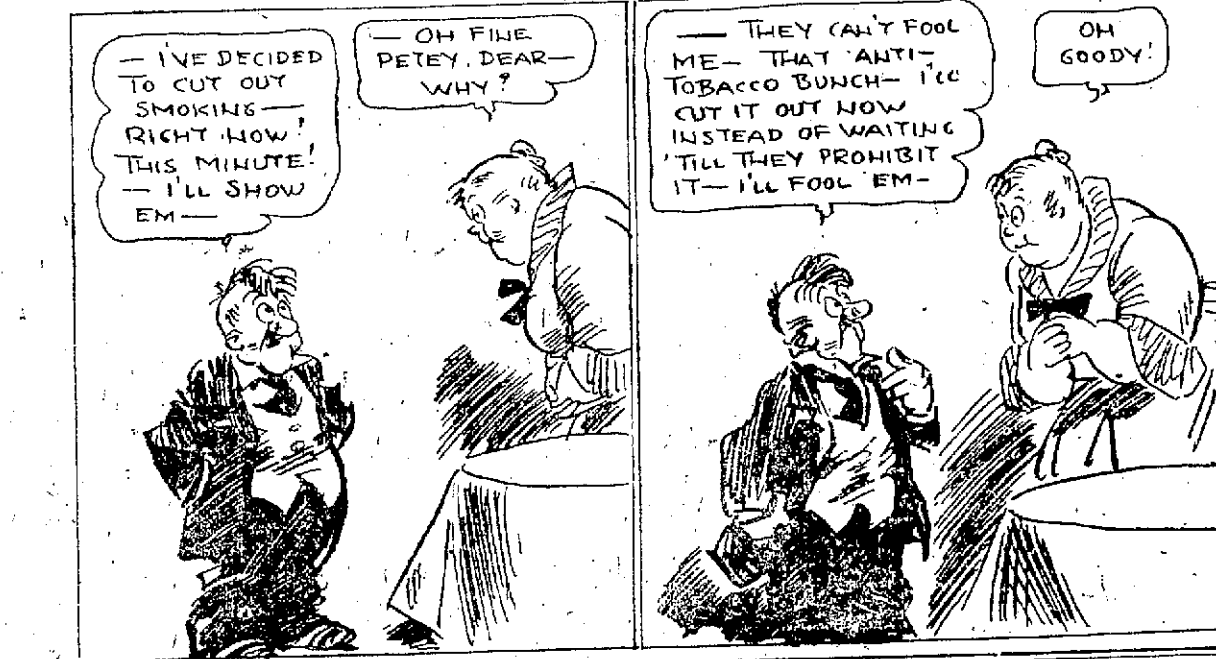

Benetol and Benetol Preparations Are Standardized Articles

Any first class drugstore anywhere in the United States can secure Benetol for you from its jobber.

Purchase your first bottle of Benetol at once and protect yourself from all germ dangers. Full directions in every first class drugstore.

"We were nine at the start," said he pensively. "Gradually we were reduced to seven, not including the manager. Two of 'em escaped before the smash. The low comedian and character old woman. Joe Buckley and his wife. That left the old man—I mean Mr. Rushcroft, the star—Lyndon Rushcroft, you know—myself and Bacon, Tommy Gray, Miss Rushcroft, Miss Hughes and a woman named Bradley, seven of us. The woman named Bradley said her mother was dying in Buffalo, so the rest of us scraped together all the money we had—nine dollars and sixty cents—and did the right thing by her. Actors are always doing darn-fool things like that. Mr. Barnes. And what do you suppose she did? She took that money and bought two tickets to Albany, one for herself and another for the manager of the company—the lowest, meanest orange-brown man that ever—But I am reminding the old man of that. You ought to be with him to see about Mr. Barnes. The old man said I never even heard of him. So that leaves just the four of us here, working off the two days' board bill of Bradley and the manager. Rushcroft's ugly dog, and at the same time keeping our own state clean. Miss Thackeray will no doubt make up your bed in the morning. She is temporarily a chambermaid. Cracking the girl, too. Are you all ready? I'll lead you to the dining room. Or would you prefer a little appetizer beforehand? The taproom is right on the way. You mustn't call it the bar. Everybody in that little graveyard town down the road would turn over completely if you did. Hallowed tradition, you know."

"I don't mind having a cocktail. Will you join me?"

"As a matter of fact, I'm expected to," confessed Mr. Dillingford. "We've been drawing quite a bit of custom to the taproom. The rubes like to sit around and listen to conversation about Broadway and Bunker Hill and Old Point Comfort and other places, and then go home and tell the neighbors that they know quite a number of stage people. Human nature, I guess. Listen! Hear that? Rushcroft reciting 'Gunga Din.' You can't hear the thunder for the noise he's making."

The descended the stairs and entered the taproom, where a dozen men were seated around the tables, all of them with peevish mugs in front of them. Standing at the top table—that is to say, the one farthest removed from the door and commanding the attention of every creature in the room—was the imposing figure of Lyndon Rushcroft. He was reciting, in a sonorous voice and with tremendous fervor, the famous Kipling poem.

A general smile wiped the tragic expression from his face. He advanced upon Barnes and the beaming Mr. Dillingford, his hand extended.

"My dear fellow," he exclaimed resoundingly, "how are you?" Cordially boomed in his voice. "I heard you had arrived. Welcome—thricefold welcome!"

"Welcome, Thricefold Welcome!"

"Come!" He neglected to say that Mr. Montague Bacon, in passing a few minutes before, had leaned over and whispered behind his hand:

"Fellow upstairs from New York. Mr. Rushcroft—fellow named Barnes. Quite a swell, believe me."

It was a well-placed tip, for Mr. Rushcroft had been telling the natives for days that he knew everybody worth knowing in New York.

Barnes was momentarily taken aback. Then he rose to the spirit of the occasion.

"Hello, Rushcroft," he greeted, as if meeting an old-time and greatly beloved friend. "This is good. I'm your soul you are like a thriving date palm in the middle of an endless desert. How are you?"

"They shook hands warmly. Mr. Dillingford slapped the newcomer on the shoulder affectionately, familiarly, and shouted:

"Who would have dreamed we'd run across good old Barnes up here? By Jove, it's marvelous!"

"Friends, countrymen," boomed Mr. Rushcroft, "this is Mr. Barnes of New York. Not the man the book was written about but one of the best fellows God ever put into this little world of ours. I do not recall your names, gentlemen, or I would introduce each of you separately and divisibly."

Lyndon Rushcroft was a tall, saggy man of fifty. Despite his determined creases he was inclined to sag from the shoulders down. His head, huge and gray, appeared to be much too ponderous for his yielding body, and yet he carried it manfully, even theatrically. The lines in his dark, seasoned face were like furrows; his nose was large and somewhat bulbous, his mouth wide and grim. Thick, black eyebrows shaded a pair of eyes in which white was no longer apparent. It hid given way to a permanent red. A two-days' stubble covered his chin and cheeks. Altogether he was a singular exemplification of one's idea of the old-time actor.

Passing through the office, his arm linked in one of Barnes', Mr. Rushcroft hesitated long enough to impress upon Landford Jones the importance of providing his "distinguished friend, Robert W. Barnes," with the very best that the establishment afforded. But Barnes blinked slightly and his eyes sought the register as if to accuse or justify his memory. Then he spat copiously into the corner, a necessary preliminary to a grin. He hadn't much use for the great Lyndon Rushcroft. His grin was sardonic. Something told him that Mr. Rushcroft was about to be liberally fed.

All this would appear to be reasonably definite were it not for the note regarding the color of his hair. It leaves to me the simple task of completing the very admirable description of Mr. Barnes by announcing that Miss Tilly's hair was an extremely dark brown.

Get a Hit on The Baseball Honor List!

By George McManus.

UNIFORMS MUST BE ORDERED IN 3 DAYS

BULLETIN.
Manager Gavin of the Milwaukee All-Stars called Manager Engon of the Janesville Hopefuls over the long distance telephone at 10 a. m. today, inquiring about the proposed game here April 20. Manager Gavin said he would wait until Saturday morning, April 12, for a decision by Janesville. If we can raise the cost of our uniforms within the next 72 hours, we will have the first championship game of the season here April 20.

(By K. L. EAGON)
The Janesville Hopefuls have a game with the Milwaukee All-Stars tentatively set for Sunday, April 20. By this time there will be in the lineup of the Janes several new and professional players. But this game cannot be played unless an order for 12 uniforms can be given through a local dealer before Saturday of this week. The sporting goods house requires one full week to fulfill the order.

Loyal Fans—Awake!
Where are the loyal fans? Where are the wide-awake, enterprising citizens and business men? Sutherland's is the first to go on the Baseball Honor Roll. They sent a check for $5.00 over to the baseball team (and yesterday—too late for mention in yesterday's columns. Every business house, shop and home in town ought to contribute SOMETHING to the campaign to give Janesville a real baseball team.

Do It Now!
Send in, bring in, or phone and let us know you're there—but get your donation in NOW!

The names of those who contribute will be published daily.

Manager McVie of the Blackhawks showed up at the Gazette office early this morning and announced the lineup of the Hawks for the game next Sunday. Here it is:
Dorn, 1b.
Wm. Fleming, 2b.
Skelly Dick, ss.
Clapworthy, 3b.
Pete Fleming, p.
McVie, c.
Marshall, lf.
Smith, cf.
Eddie Hill, rf.
Cully—Delaney and Brodick.

Hawks Out Tonight
Manager McVie said that if the weather was clear this afternoon, the Hawks would invade the fair grounds for practice. No regular practice was scheduled for the Hawks tonight, the next regular practice having been set for 7:30 p. m. Thursday, but Daniels, big league catcher, was to report late today, and if a pitcher can be located, there will be something doing on the Janes side at the fair grounds tonight. If Daniels shows up well, he probably will perform behind the actors Sunday.

A letter from Edward Adams, Fox Lake, Wis., showed up this morning. Adams contends he is considerable of an outfielder as an outfielder for the permanent team is just what we've been looking for. Adams will be asked to rush to Janesville.

Black Nursing Arm
Last night, we had with us the widely-known and worthily touted Alton, Ill., southpaw extraordinary. Dick said his arm was a little stiff, but that he hoped to have the wrinkle out of it long before Sunday, when he may be called upon. Kakusko was on hand. The big fellow looks better every time up. He pulled ten down out in the field, like they were balloons, nailing for him to land, and he got some healthy swats at the pill in practice. Axel Pierson looked like a bearcat in the field. Axel has a way all his own of pulling them down, and sure can throw home from deep outfield.

"Pantle" Schaber, of course, was on hand, as was Schauer. And Vince battled 'em up until it was so dark Axel Pierson got the last ball with a pocket flashlight.

Dopp, Where'd You Go?
Dopp showed up early, and left early, having a date which he would say nothing about, but referred to with large smiles. All right, Doppie. Dopp dug 'em out of the ground and canted about the bases in practice, vera fine, vera fine.

Dopp got quite a workout, too. He looks great.

Leo Pice notified the writer before practice that he couldn't make it, but will be on hand sure Thursday afternoon.

Cat Mothers Little Easter Chick

BLACK BESSIE AND THE EASTER CHICK SHE ADOPTED.

Maybe this year it will be a black little fluffy yellow one was described brings the Easter basket filled with candy eggs and little chicks. At least there is one cat who has become interested in Easter chicks. When a little fluffy yellow one was deserted by a wicked mother hen with a brood of six others, an old black family cat rescued the little thing. The others all died, but the tiniest one was left in misery and loneliness. Old black Bessie, who had an unbroken reputation for killing cats and birds, astonished everybody by taking the chick under her protect-ion and becoming its foster-mother. With loving care Bessie watches over the little Easter chick, keeping it close to her warm soft fur where it nestles as contentedly as if it were with the mother hen. When the little chick wanders too far away to be seen, Bessie looks for it, and just as if she were carrying a kitten in another cat's fashion. The camera caught these strange bedfellows in perfect contentment and harmony.

BIRD CORNER

By Marion Anderson, Edgerton, Canaries

One day this spring I was playing with our neighbor children and two flocks of canaries came and sat down in a tree. They chirped and chirped and sang so sweetly. They hopped from one tree to another singing all the time. All the people in the neighborhood were called over to see the canaries. We children got so interested in the canaries. One of our children's mother told us to call our mothers over so we did. I guess mothers had been having a party because they chirped so.
